FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

JARDINIER CORPORATION ACQUIRES GARDEN ART INTERNATIONAL

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, Calif., April 1, 2008. Jardinier Corporation (JRDN: PK), the provider of energy-saving, water-conserving irrigation products and systems, today announced that it has consummated the acquisition of the assets of Garden Art International from Valley Crest Companies, LLC. Jardinier provides environmentally friendly irrigation solutions to customers with immediate and significant cost savings. Garden Art produces high-end decorative containers and planter boxes for the commercial marketplace. The acquisition increases the company's ability to provide more robust turnkey irrigation solutions that are environmentally sound. Garden Art will continue to operate under the same management and build upon the Garden Art brand and customer base.

Commenting on the acquisition, Gene Nalbandian, CEO and founder of Jardinier Corporation, stated, "We consider the acquisition to be key in making us a one-stop shop company in environmental sustainability. Our products save the consumer energy, water and maintenance costs."

The market for irrigation products and services is estimated to be in excess of $4 billion annually in the United States alone. Opportunities exist for Jardinier in both the private and government sectors for both new development and in retrofitting existing environments for the reduction of water and energy usage.

About Jardinier Corporation

Jardinier, a Nevada Corporation, through its wholly owned operating subsidiary Jardinier Planter Systems, Inc., develops and markets a line of patented, proprietary subterranean irrigation systems that are proven to be an effective growing and plant maintenance system.
